Power Support today introduced the newest addition to its line of iPod accessories: the Kimono Cases for iPod with video. This new line combines intricate designs and stunning aesthetics with the functionality and attention to detail that has made Power Support a top-seller of accessories in Japan for Apple products for over a decade. "Inspired by majestic temples, gardens and palaces, Kyoto craftsmen and artists have been admired the world over for creating beautiful works of art for thousands of years. Within Kyoto lies the historic district of Gion, uniquely known for its living art, the Geisha. Famous for their beauty and revered for their mastery of dance and performance, the colors and elegance of the Geisha can now be wrapped snugly around the user's iPod." Expected to ship next month, the Kimono Case will be offered for $40 and is compatible with either iPod video.

The case is constructed of fine leather and authentic cotton kimono fabric--and each case is cut individually, ensuring that no two cases are exactly alike. A fabric covered insert is included to provide a custom fit, allowing this case to be used with either the 30GB or 60GB iPod with video. All wheel functions and docking capabilities are fully accessible without removing the kimono. The company says that users simply unclasp the bottom button of the Kimono Case and proceed with normal docking procedures.
